Ruth Rendell writes detective stories. People all over the world love reading them. You can buy her books in many different languages. She writes exciting stories about different cases, like murders or robberies. She won lots of awards for her books.

Her most famous books are about detective Reginald Wexford. He lives and works in the country and solves many cases with his friend, Inspector Burden. Burden is very different from Wexford. Wexford is a friendly and intelligent policeman. Burden is younger, not so friendly and quite jealous of Wexford! You can see films of almost all the Wexford books and many of Ruth Rendell's other stories, too.

Ruth sometimes uses another name when she writes stories – Barbara Vine! These books are also very exciting, but they are more about people and why they do different things. Ruth Rendell is a very intelligent writer and her books are good to read.
