Sarah: Hello, Bristol Tourist Center, Sarah speaking. How can I help you?

Michael: Hello. My name's Michael Swift. My family and I are travelling to Bristol by train next week. We're going to stay for three or four nights and I'd like some information about things to do in the city.

Sarah: What day will you arrive, Mr. Swift? Do you need to book a hotel?

Michael: We'll arrive on Saturday evening, but we're going to stay with friends, so we don't have to book a hotel. I only want to find out about things to do with the family. We have a six-year-old girl and an eight-year-old boy.

Sarah: Oh, they would certainly like the zoo. Children their age love going to the zoo, don't they?

Michael: Yes. I used to love going to the zoo when I was a child. We used to go to Chester Zoo because it was the nearest zoo to where we lived in Manchester. I hear Bristol Zoo has lovely gardens. My wife will enjoy the them because she loves gardening. How much does it cost for a family of four?

Sarah: I'm not sure, let me check. It's £40 for a family ticket.

Michael: That's not bad for the four of us. Can we buy lunch there?

Sarah: Yes, of course. There are cafés and restaurants where you can have a snack or a hot meal, or you can take your own food and have a picnic. Another good day out is the At-Bristol science center. There are lots of things for the children to do there. They can have fun and learn at the same time.

Michael: That sounds great. Where is it and how much does it cost?

Sarah: It's on Anchor Road, opposite the library, and I think it's a bit cheaper than the zoo. In the same area, there's the old ship that Brunel built, the SS Great Britain. That's a great place to visit, too.

Michael: I don't think my wife would like that very much. She hates boats and she can't swim - she's afraid of water because she fell in a pond when she was little. My son is interested in boats. Maybe I'll take the children to see the ship and my wife can go shopping. Women love shopping, don't they?

Sarah: Not all women, Mr. Swift. I think shopping's boring! I prefer to do my shopping online. It's much quicker.

Michael: I agree! Well, I think that's all. Thank you for your advice. You were very helpful.
